NOTICE OF APPARENT LIABILITY FOR FORFEITURE

Released: November 5, 2002

By the Enforcement Bureau, Atlanta Office:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. In this Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture ("NAL"), we find Georgia Transmission Corp. ("Georgia Transmission"), owner of the antenna structure located at coordinates 31° 31' 49" North Latitude and 82° 52' 45" West Longitude, in Douglas, Georgia, apparently liable for a forfeiture in the amount of three thousand dollars ($3,000) for willful and repeated violation of Section 17.4(a) of the Commission's Rules ("Rules").<sup>1</sup> Specifically, we find Georgia Transmission Corp. apparently liable for failing to register its antenna structure.

II. BACKGROUND

2. On July 24, 2002, an agent of the FCC Enforcement Bureau's Atlanta Office ("Atlanta Office") inspected the antenna structure located at 31° 31' 49" North Latitude and 82° 52' 45" West Longitude, in Douglas, Georgia. The agent noted that the structure was painted and had continuously operating strobe lighting, however, the tower was not registered with the Commission.

3. On September 24, 2002, the agent interviewed a representative of Georgia Transmission Corp., who verified that Georgia Transmission Corp. was the owner of the antenna structure and that the structure was not registered with the Commission. The former license for the microwave station on the structure required that the antenna structure be lighted since it is over 200 feet tall.

III. DISCUSSION

4. Section 17.4(a) of the Rules provides that, effective July 1, 1996, owners of any existing antenna structures that require notification to the Federal Aviation Administration (“FAA”) must register the structure with the Commission. Section 17.4(a)(2) of the Rules provides that, effective July 1, 1998, owners of an antenna structure that had been assigned painting or lighting requirements prior to July 1, 1996, must register the structure with the Commission. Georgia Transmission’s antenna structure required notification to the FAA because the structure exceeded 200 feet in height.<sup>2</sup> In addition, the structure had been assigned lighting requirements by the FCC on the former microwave station license held by the structure’s previous owner. Therefore, Georgia Transmission’s antenna structure required Commission registration. From at least July 24 to September 24, 2002, Georgia Transmission failed to register its antenna structure with the Commission.

5. Based on the evidence before us, we find Georgia Transmission willfully<sup>3</sup> and repeatedly<sup>4</sup> violated Section 17.4(a) of the Rules by failing to register its antenna structure.

6. Pursuant to Section 1.80(b)(4) of the Commission’s Rules,<sup>5</sup> the base forfeiture amount for failing to register an antenna structure is $3,000 (failure to file required forms or information). In assessing the monetary forfeiture amount, we must also take into account the statutory factors set forth in Section 503(b)(2)(D) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (“Act”), which include the nature, circumstances, extent, and gravity of the violation, and with respect to the violator, the degree of culpability, any history of prior offenses, ability to pay, and other such matters as justice may require.<sup>6</sup> Considering the entire record and applying the statutory factors listed above, this case warrants a $3,000 forfeiture.

<sup>3</sup> Section 312(f)(1) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (“Act”), 47 U.S.C. § 312(f)(1), which applies equally to Section 503(b) of the Act, provides that “[t]he term ‘willful,’ when used with reference to the commission or omission of any act, means the conscious and deliberate commission or omission of such act, irrespective of any intent to violate any provision of this Act....” See Southern California Broadcasting Co., 6 FCC Rcd 4387 (1991).

<sup>4</sup> The term “repeated,” when used with reference to the commission or omission of any act, “means the commission or omission of such act more than once or, if such commission or omission is continuous, for more than one day.” 47 U.S.C. § 312(f)(2).
